Other academic information:

In general, courses in lower division (freshman and sophomore years) are numbered 1 to 99; courses in the upper division (junior and senior years) are numbered 100 to 200; and graduate courses are numbered 201 to 400. Courses numbered 301 and above are generally professional courses in the doctoral program.

The unit of credit is the semester hour. Most classes taught at the University meet 3 hours a week; these classes carry 48 hours of instruction and 3 units of credit

For undergraduate students, the academic load is maximum of 18 non-laboratory units, or 21 units including laboratory, except in programs where the normal semester load is more than 18 units.

The Academic Year is divided into two semesters of at least sixteen weeks or eighty class days each, exclusive of registration and final examination periods. The first semester usually starts in June; the second semester in November. A summer session of six weeks follows the second semester
