

COLLEGE OF ARTS & LETTERS
College Specific Tier II Writing Criteria

Tier II writing in the College of Arts and Letters is designed to engage students in processes that broaden their understanding of the writing practices and products in their disciplines. Upon fulfillment of the Tier II writing requirement, students in the College of Arts and Letters will be able to...

1. Employ processes of inquiry and strategies of knowledge production to compose in their disciplines.
2. Practice revising, reviewing, and editing to compose texts that communicate effectively in their disciplines.
3. Write in some of the major forms employed by their disciplines.
4. Communicate effectively knowledge of the disciplines both within academic contexts and for broader audiences.
5. Identify the discursive strategies within written products in their disciplines to evaluate their own and others' work.
6. Situate their written work in relation to the range of goals, genres and audiences of their disciplines.
