Effective Summer 2023.

2. Establish a Master of Science degree in Basic Medical Science in the College of Osteopathic Medicine. The University Committee on Graduate Studies (UCGS) recommended approval of this request at its November 21, 2022 meeting.

a. Background Information:

The mission of the Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine (MSUCOM) is to provide world-class, osteopathic, student-centered graduate and medical education and research in order to foster community access to patient-centered medical care. We prepare physicians in the science of medicine, the art of caring and the power of touch, with a world view open to all people. (https://com.msu.edu/about-us/our-mission).
MSUCOM has been welcoming bright and talented people who want to make a difference in the world for over 50 years. It is our hope that all students who are admitted to the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine (D.O.) program will be successful in their goals to complete the degree requirements. However, exceptions occur. The rationale for developing the Master of Science degree in Basic Medical Science is to aid osteopathic medical students who have successfully completed the first two years of the D.O. program but may not, for personal or other reasons, continue to pursue the D.O. degree. This proposal is intended to provide these students with an opportunity to apply the work done and skills learned in the preclerkship curriculum years one and two toward a graduate degree.

There are two categories of students who would be eligible to apply for the Master of Science degree in Basic Medical Science. The first is a student who was successful in the first two years of medical school, but who decided they no longer wish to pursue the profession of osteopathic medicine. This could be for personal or other reasons. The second is a student who passed all required preclerkship courses but is not able to achieve success in passing COMLEX-USA Level 1 or Level 2-CE- or meet the clerkship requirements in years three and four to earn a D.O. degree.

A small number of students a year leave MSUCOM with no degree. This happens for two reasons.
They either fail to meet the D.O. program requirements, or they decide that practicing medicine is not the right career for them. Either way, these students have accrued a significant amount of education and, therefore, should be eligible for a degree that will allow them to move on to a productive career. There will be no impact on other degree programs at MSU. This unique opportunity would not be open to the student population at large. It would be restricted to osteopathic medical students who successfully completed the first two years of medical school. The program will not impact the Master of Arts degree in Clinical Medicine program in the College of Human Medicine because the proposed program is designed specifically for D.O. students, and completion of the D.O. preclerkship program will be required for the M.S. degree.

Once the offer for a student to join the program has been made by the college administration, the student may or may not elect to switch from the D.O. to the Master of Science degree program.
This program should have minimal impact on the human or financial resources of MSU or COM. Of the 300 students who matriculate each year, on average, no more than five per year would be eligible for this program. Currently enrolled students who have completed or are near completion of the first two years of medical school are eligible to apply. Students who are ineligible to advance in the D.O. program due to professional conduct issues would not be eligible for this program. Once the student opts to transfer into the Master of Science degree program, they may not return to pursue the D.O. degree at MSUCOM.

The proposed Master of Science degree in Basic Medical Science would be a post-hoc degree, not one in which a student could start medical school in anticipation of receiving this degree. Dual degrees will not be conferred to those who successfully complete the four-year curriculum and receive the D.O. degree.

b. Academic Programs Catalog Text:

The Master of Science degree in Basic Medical Science is available to aid osteopathic medical students who have successfully completed the first two years of the D.O. program but may not, for personal or other reasons, continue to pursue the D.O. degree. Once a student enrolls in the Master of Science degree program, they may not return to pursuing the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree at MSUCOM. The Master of Science degree will not be conferred to those who have successfully completed the four-year curriculum to receive the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree.

Admission

To be considered for admission to the Master of Science degree in Basic Medical Science, students must:

1. be or have been enrolled in the College of Osteopathic Medicine as a medical student.
2. have successfully completed the first two years (preclerkship) of the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine program outline below.
3. elect not to continue to completion of the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree.
